“ Jake loved to spread joy to my little girls. I lived next door to Jake for 8 plus years and our family grew to love him and we were blessed by our friendship. Jake loved to pass out candy to my girls anytime they asked, which was pretty often, and popsicles in the summer. They would always call him "Mr. Jake" and still do! Jake and I would sit on his porch and talk about life, faith, parenting and the neighborhood. We could have sat there for hours talking and laughing but were usually cutoff after my wife would call or text me wondering where I had disappeared to. :) I'm grateful for the time Jake and I had together and the love and laughs we shared. My condolences to the family on your loss.
